

In the sterile world of 2020, the Dettol babies were born with no ability to develop their own immune system.

10 years on, My Invisible World seeks to re-establish the relationship between children and bacteria in the post Covid world.

My Invisible World is a suite of artefacts consisting of: my (in)visible world workbook, digi-swab pen, smart toilet paper and happy guts meal kit.

Each artefact plays a key role as part of the system. The system is focused on the importance of bacteria in relation to children's mental and physical health.

The artefacts provide an array of fun and educational tools to allow children to visualise, learn, understand and explore the invisible world of bacteria.
